

Rights of the data subject vis-à-vis the operator

The GDPR establishes the general conditions for the exercise of your individual rights. However, their existence does not automatically mean that we will comply with them when exercising individual rights, as exceptions or some rights are linked to specific conditions that may not be met in every case. We will always deal with and examine your request regarding a specific right in terms of legislation and our internal policy for handling data subject complaints.

As a data subject, you have a number of rights in accordance with the Regulation and the law, which you can exercise against us at your discretion and demand their fulfillment. These rights are:

The right to request from the operator access to personal data concerning the person concerned

As a data subject, you have the right to request confirmation from us as to whether personal data relating to you is being processed and, if so, you have the right to access this personal data and the following information:

- a) processing purposes;
- b) categories of affected personal data;
- c) recipients or categories of recipients to whom personal data have been or will be provided, especially recipients in third countries or international organizations;
- d) if possible, the expected period of storage of personal data or, if this is not possible, the criteria for its determination;
- e) the existence of the right to request from the operator the correction of personal data relating to the person concerned or their deletion or restriction of processing, or the right to object to such processing;
- f) the right to file a complaint with the supervisory authority;
- g) if the personal data were not obtained from the data subject, any available information as to their source;
- h) the existence of automated decision-making, including the profiling referred to in Article 22 paragraph 1 and 4 of the Regulations and in these cases at least meaningful information about the procedure used, as well as the meaning and expected consequences of such processing for you as the person concerned.

The right to correct personal data

As a data subject, you have the right to have incorrect personal data concerning you corrected without undue delay. With regard to the purposes of processing, you have the right to supplement incomplete personal data, including by providing a supplementary statement.

Right to erasure of personal data (right to be "forgotten")

As a data subject, you have the right to obtain from us the deletion of personal data concerning you without undue delay. While we, as the operator, are obliged to delete personal data without undue delay if any of the following reasons are met:

- a) personal data are no longer necessary for the purposes for which they were obtained or otherwise processed;
- b) the person concerned revokes the consent on the basis of which the processing is carried out, according to Article 6 paragraph 1 letter a) Regulation or Article 9 par. 2 letters a) Regulations, and if there is no other legal basis for processing;
- c) the person concerned objects to the processing according to Article 21 paragraph 1 of the Regulations and there are no valid reasons for processing or the data subject objects to the processing according to Article 21 par. 2 Regulations;
- d) personal data were processed illegally;
- e) personal data must be deleted in order to fulfill a legal obligation under the law of the Union or the law of the Slovak Republic;
- f) personal data were obtained in connection with the offer of information society services according to Article 8, paragraph 1 Regulations.

If we have disclosed personal data and under any of the above conditions we are required to delete personal data, taking into account the available technology and the costs of implementing the measures, we are obliged to take reasonable measures, including technical measures, to inform the operators who carry out the processing of personal data that you have asked us to delete all references to this personal data, its copy or replicas.

The above paragraphs do not apply if the processing is necessary:

- a) to exercise the right to freedom of expression and information;
- b) to fulfill a legal obligation that requires processing according to Union law or the law of a Member State to which the operator is subject, or to fulfill a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of public authority entrusted to the operator;
- c) for reasons of public interest in the field of public health in accordance with Article 9 par. 2 letters h) ai) Regulations, as well as Article 9 par. 3 Regulations;
- d) for the purposes of archiving in the public interest, for the purposes of scientific or historical research or for statistical purposes pursuant to Article 89, paragraph 1 Regulations, if it is likely that the right to erasure referred to in the first paragraph of this section will make it impossible or seriously difficult to achieve the goals of such processing, or
- e) to demonstrate, exercise or defend legal claims.

Right to restriction of processing

As a data subject, you have the right to have us (as the controller) restrict processing in one of the following cases:

- a) the person concerned contests the correctness of the personal data, during the period allowing the operator to verify the correctness of the personal data;
- b) the processing is illegal and the data subject objects to the erasure of personal data and requests a restriction of their use instead;
- c) the operator no longer needs the personal data for processing purposes, but the data subject needs them to prove, exercise or defend legal claims;
- d) the person concerned has objected to the processing according to Article 21 paragraph 1 of the Regulations, until it is verified whether the legitimate reasons on the part of the operator prevail over the legitimate reasons of the person concerned.

If the processing has been limited according to the above-mentioned cases, such personal data, with the exception of storage, are only processed with the consent of the person concerned or to demonstrate, exercise or defend legal claims, or to protect the rights of another natural or legal person, or for reasons of important public interest of the Union or member state.

The right to object to processing

1. As a data subject, you have the right to object at any time, for reasons related to your specific situation, to the processing of personal data concerning you, if this processing is carried out on the basis of Article 6 para. 1 letter e) or f) Regulations. That is, in cases when:

- a) processing is necessary to fulfill a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of public authority entrusted to the operator, or
- b) processing is necessary for the purposes of legitimate interests pursued by the operator or a third party, with the exception of cases where such interests are overridden by the interests or fundamental rights and freedoms of the data subject, which require the protection of personal data, especially if the data subject is a child.

You can also object to profiling based on the aforementioned provisions. In such a case, we may not further process your personal data, unless we demonstrate necessary legitimate reasons for processing that outweigh your interests, rights and freedoms, or reasons for proving, exercising or defending legal claims.

If personal data is processed for the purposes of direct marketing, you have the right to object at any time to the processing of personal data concerning you for the purposes of such marketing, including profiling to the extent that it is related to such direct marketing.

If you object to processing for direct marketing purposes, we may no longer process your personal data for such purposes.

In connection with the use of information society services and regardless of Directive 2002/58/EC, the data subject may exercise his right to object by automated means using technical specifications.

If personal data is processed for the purposes of scientific or historical research or for statistical purposes according to Article 89, paragraph 1 of the Regulations, the data subject has the right to object, for reasons related to his specific situation, to the processing of personal data concerning him, with the exception of cases where the processing is necessary for the performance of a task for reasons of public interest.

Right to data portability

The essence of this right is that you can ask us to provide all personal data that we process about you to another operator in a technically acceptable form.

As a data subject, you have the right to receive personal data relating to you that you have provided to us in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format, and you have the right to transfer this data to another controller without us preventing you if:

- a) the processing is based on consent according to Article 6 par. 1 letter a) Regulation or Article 9 par. 2 letters a) Regulations, or on the contract according to article 6 par. 1 letter b) Regulations, a
- b) if the processing is carried out by automated means.

When exercising his right to data portability, the data subject has the right to transfer personal data directly from one operator to another operator, as long as this is technically possible.

The aforementioned right does not apply to processing necessary to fulfill a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of public authority entrusted to the operator.

The exercise of the right to accuracy must not have adverse consequences on the rights and freedoms of others.

Other rights and rules in the processing of personal data

Personal information when paying school fees via electronic banking

If you use one of the offered electronic banking versions to pay school fees, we do not come into contact with any data such as login data. Payments are made directly on the bank's website. This will provide us with information about the success of the payment and your name and account number so that we can identify the payment.

Handling of personal data

We protect personal data against their damage, destruction, loss, change, unauthorized access and access, provision or publication, as well as against any other impermissible methods of processing. We process personal data in accordance with generally binding legal regulations, especially in accordance with the Regulation, the law and also in accordance with good morals. Persons who come into contact with personal data are informed in advance of how to process them and are instructed about the obligation to maintain data confidentiality.

Correctness of personal data

The personal data you provide to us must be correct. If you discover that you have provided us with incorrect data or if your personal data has changed, please inform us of these facts. We will process your data correctly and, in case of changes, we will update them.

The right to withdraw consent at any time

In cases where we process personal data about you based on your consent, you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time. Withdrawal of your consent does not affect the lawfulness of processing based on consent granted before its withdrawal. That is, even if you revoke your consent, we performed the actions carried out until your consent was revoked.

The right to file a complaint with a supervisory authority

If you believe that your rights stated in these Rules or in the Regulation have been violated, you have the right to file a complaint with the supervisory authority, which is the Personal Data Protection Office of the Slovak Republic.

Obligation or possibility to provide personal data

We must process personal data in order to be able to fulfill the obligations and tasks that arise from us as a public university:

- from generally binding legal regulations;
- from legitimate or public interests that we pursue;
- from contractual relations.

The existence of automated decision-making, including profiling

When processing personal data, automated individual decision-making or profiling is not carried out in accordance with § 28 par. 1 and 4 .
